

Program Director

Impact Reactor is an organization dedicated to advancing policy solutions to create a cleaner economy and more sustainable communities. We aim to leverage policy expertise, advocacy experience, and business relationships to help catalyze change. This startup environmental organization seeks an individual to work with a top-notch multi-disciplinary team to develop projects that advance our mission of strengthening the clean economy in California and beyond.

Impact Reactor is searching for a talented, hard-working, individual committed to building a cleaner economy and more sustainable community. The ideal candidate for this position will be values-driven, self-motivated, resourceful, and a strategic thinker. In addition to campaign experience, supervision, and management experience, she will also bring excellent written and verbal communications skills, more than a year of leadership responsibility, and keen political judgment.

The Program Director would be managing three distinct programs that are already ongoing, as well as work with the founder to develop new programs – developing strategy and plans, hiring additional staff, etc – on an ongoing basis. The Program Director would work closely with the founder, yet have autonomy in the direction of the Programs. The existing programs are focused on mapping the clean economy in California, managing an outreach program between clean economy business leaders and their elected officials, and encouraging transit sustainability. This position is located in San Francisco, CA.

The Program Director must have:

- A commitment to the clean economy and sustainable communities
- Experience working on, managing, or volunteering for a political campaign
- Strong time management skills with ability to manage multiple tasks and projects at one time
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Demonstrated organizational and project management abilities
- Management experience, whether with staff or volunteers
- Excellent interpersonal skills
- Proven resourcefulness
- Keen political judgement

An ideal candidate will have:

- Strong leadership potential
- Interest in deepening their connections within the tech and clean tech communities in California
- The desire to help start something new
- Olympic curling aspirations a plus

Compensation

Salary range: commensurate with experience.

Full health benefits available.

Please submit a resume and cover letter to:

Erica Fox

fox.eric@gmail.com